

REL 621: Teaching World Religions in Theory and Practice

The complexities of teaching introductory courses in world religions, especially in the context of recent debates on comparison as well as the very concept of "religion." Graduate standing.