

Syracuse University
African American Studies Department
Fall Colloquium

14 Black Classicists:
The Politics of American Learning

~~~
Michele Valerie Ronnick

Professor in Classical and Modern Languages, Literatures, and Cultures, Wayne State University

Thursday, September 21, 2017

5:30 - 7:00 p.m.

Graham Commons - Bird Library 114

Free & Open to the Public ~ Information: 315.443.4302 /aas@syr.edu

Michele Ronnick's pioneering publications on black teachers and scholars in the field of classical studies include The Autobiography of William Sanders Scarborough (2005) and The Works of William Sanders Scarborough: Black Classicist and Race Leader (2006). She has also published over 100 journal articles, chapters, and research notes. Her exhibition, 14 Black Classicists, includes the first person of African descent to earn a Ph.D. at Syracuse University. It has traveled to 48 galleries and is on view at the Community Folk Art Center through November.

CO-SPONSORS

Languages, Literature, and Linguistics Department: Classics Program

English Department

History Department

Religion Department